Our records indicate that you will need the attached forms package to report on your employee benefit plan(s). However, if you were sent the wrong forms or if you need more forms, you may get them from the IRS distribution centers or from field offices of the Pension and Welfare Benefits Administration of the Department of Labor. Also see the instructions for How To Get Forms.

ERISA provides for penalties for failure to furnish complete information and failure to file statements and returns/ reports. The 5500-C/R forms will be screened by a computer process for completeness. Therefore, we urge all employers and plan administrators to comply fully with the filing requirements.

Alert: Are You Ready For Y2K?

Will your computers be OK in Y2K? Administrators and other fiduciaries of employee benefit plans should do all they can to make sure the plan's computer systems and, to the extent possible, those of the plan's service providers will continue to work correctly after December 31, 1999. Failure to address the Year 2000 computer problem could have serious consequences for the plan's participants and beneficiaries. For more information on the Year 2000 or "Y2K" computer problem, call PWBA's toll-free Publications Hotline at 1-800-998-7542 or visit PWBA's Internet site at <http://www.dol.gov/dol/pwba>.

In addition, the Small Business Administration (SBA) has developed resources pertaining to the Year 2000 problem that contain valuable guidance. For more information, contact the SBA at 1-800-U-ASK-SBA or <http://www.sba.gov>.
